Tom Fletcher

Tom Fletcher was born on 17th July 1985 in Harrow, London. Tom's dad worked for Kodak and was part of a band in his spare time. Tom's mother taught children with special needs. Tom loved music and went to the famous Sylvia Young Theatre School at the age of thirteen.

Tom auditioned for the UK band Busted, but was dropped from the group when it was decided they only needed three members. Tom's formed the band McFly (named after his favourite character Marty McFly in the film Back to the Future).

Tom's first published children's book in 2012 The Dinosaur that Pooped Christmas was co-written with fellow McFly bandmate Dougie Poynter.
